CAREER HISTORY

Greg is one of the most experienced trial advocates at the Queensland Bar, having appeared in hundreds of jury trials since being admitted in 1986.

He appeared in his first of approximately 40 murder trials in 1990 and defended Queensland's first serial killer! Another of the murder trials he was involved in recently became the subject of a Stan documentary entitled "The Cape".

Currently the main focus and passion of his practice is appearing for young men charged with sexual offences, noting the proliferation in such charges as well as domestic violence related matters.

His practice does continue to encompass all aspects of the criminal law as well as associated regulatory work in the health field.

He is a past member of the Police Misconduct Tribunal and the Queensland Board of the Medical Board of Australia and maintains an active interest in rugby league through both the QRL and Rugby League Brisbane judiciary and disciplinary tribunals.
